

Abstract of the Disclosure

When a user presents a common certificate in common with a plurality of services and accesses to one of those services, the system determines whether or not the certificate corresponds to a pre-registered certificate. When the user's certificate corresponds to the pre-registered certificate, the system permits the use to use the accessed service.